- Contact their department’s business office to inform them that they will be submitting an application.
- Register as a student in the U.S. Department of Education’s G5 system, available at www.g5.gov
- Complete application following all guidelines in the application package (available from within the G5 system). Proposal development assistance should come from departmental administrators.

- Complete the University’s internal electronic proposal routing process through Kuali Research (KR) in order to obtain appropriate approvals at the department and college levels. Students should work with their department’s business office to initiate the routing process and to be named as the Principal Investigator on the KR routing for the G5 application. For more information see Who is eligible to be a Principal Investigator (PI)?
- Complete and submit the final application in G5. All UM proposals must be submitted as one package to the U.S. Department of Education by ORA. In order to allow ORA to compile the final package, completed applications must be final in G5 and UM internal routing must be completed no later than February 10, 2020. For questions on how to route an application, contact your department’s business office promptly.

The University of Maryland’s Project Director, as designated in the G5 system, is Wendy Montgomery, Director, ORA.
